SPOTLIGHT ATTRACTION

Missouri History Museum

Long known as the treasure of St. Louis, Forest Park is not only an attraction in and of itself, but is also home to a multitude of visitor destinations. As one of the jewels of Forest Park, the Missouri History Museum is a favorite among visitors and locals alike. The Museum is home to a variety of permanent, semi-permanent and traveling exhibits that explore the history of St. Louis, as well as the role St. Louis has played in shaping American history over the years.

In addition to exploring the offered exhibitions, groups wishing to visit the Museum also have the opportunity to enjoy over ten different docent-led themed tours with topics ranging from immigration to race relations to westward expansion. These tours link an overlying theme across exhibitions and place cultural topics within a historical context.

The Missouri History Museum is also an ideal setting to host a private event. From an outdoor cocktail party for 100 to a seated indoor reception for 300, the Museum serves as a historical playground for any type of event.

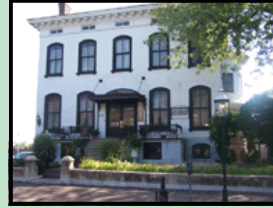

To arrange a group outing or tour or for assistance in planning an event at the Museum, contact Destination St. Louis at (314) 724-2400.

New & Exciting

In Destination St. Louis' never-ending quest to offer our clients new and exciting services, we recently began offering a tour highlighting the ghostly haunts of St. Louis. Titled St. Louis: The Spooky and the Supernatural, this tour gives participants an eerie view of the haunted history of St. Louis and includes stops at the Lemp Mansion, considered to be one of the top ten haunted houses in the United States, Lafayette Park in Lafayette Square, reported location of multiple sightings of a trio of Civil War soldiers and Saint Louis University, site of a 1949 exorcism that became the basis of the movie "The Exorcism."
